Biographical Note

Virginia Lee Burton (1909-1968) was the talented author and illustrator of some of the most enduring books ever written for children. The winner of the 1942 Caldecott Medal for The Little House, Burton wrote books that featured heroes, happy endings, lively illustrations, and a dash of nostalgia. She lived with her two sons, Aristides and Michael, and her husband George Demetrios, the sculptor, in a section of Gloucester, MA called Folly Cove. There she taught a class in design, and from it emerged the Folly Cove Designers, a group of internationally known professional artisans.

The women and men who learned the art of block printing from Virginia Lee Demetrios formed a craft guild in 1939. They chose the name Folly Cove Designers for their trademark and logo – still familiar today. The textiles first created for home use were sold through Home Industries in Rockport, MA. In 1948 a barn owned by the Demetrios family at Folly Cove became the center for exhibits and sales, which continued for twenty years. Virginia Lee Burton died in 1968, and the Folly Cove Designers disbanded the following year.

To become a Folly Cove Designer, each person had to create a design that was reviewed by a five-member jury. All designs had to be approved before they could be cut, inked, and printed. Some members had a printing press at home; others used the Acorn press at the Folly Cove barn. In summer, designers gave demonstrations there, inking and printing blocks on placemats, runners, hangings, yard goods, and skirts. Through the years the block print fabrics of the Folly Cove Designers have had worldwide acclaim, featured in special exhibits and newspaper and magazine articles.

The Folly Cove Collection, which has been at the Cape Ann Museum in Gloucester, MA since 1971, is the largest collection of the work of the Folly Cove Designers in the world. It is a resource for textile designers, businesses, and craft historians, and an inspiration for creators of handmade art.

Scope and Content of the Collection

The heart of this collection lies not in one particular area of the files, but in the entirety of the collection itself. The letters, advertisements, bills, and other documents of the Folly Cove

27 Pleasant Street, Gloucester, Massachusetts 01930 USA

Series Description

Box 1 of this collection contains photographs, both personal and professional, of the Folly Cove Designers and their work space. Some show members of the craft guild at work in the barn at Folly Cove; others show Virginia Lee Burton in particular, at home and at work.

Box 2 contains thirteen files, spanning from the 1940s to the 1980s, containing: catalogues, advertisements, lists of designs, rules & regulations, price lists, business & miscellaneous correspondence, notes by Virginia Lee Demetrios. The materials within each individual file have been ordered chronologically, while the collection of files has been rearranged thematically, in descending order of relevance to the Folly Cove Designers. (The subject matter of files shifts from professional to personal.). Saima Natti Hancock lessons (Folly Cove Designs, 1953).

Box 3 is comprised of financial documents of the Folly Cove Designers. Primarily correspondence between the craft guild and clients, but it also contains other “business-related” items such as invoices and final products. (Two similar items – Account Books- are contained in Box 2) The items within each file have been ordered chronologically by starting date, as have the files themselves. The contents of the box span the years 1944-1974.

Box 4 contains more recent files, dated between 1983 and 2013. These materials relate to the proceedings after the Folly Cove Designers had disbanded, including publications and exhibitions of artwork displayed at the Cape Ann Museum, as well as plans for the new FCD gallery in 2013. The files are ordered chronologically by starting date.

Box 5 contains the typed transcripts of interviews with members of the Folly Cove Designers, a thumbdrive of the actual interviews and transcripts, 8 CDs of the same, 14 black & white photographs, and 13 sheets of negatives.

Box 6 contains the original audio tapes of the interviews and duplicate photographs.

Box 7 contains the tax returns of the organization, and correspondence with the IRS 1952 to 1971

The large scrapbook is the final piece of this collection and contains photos, newspaper and magazine articles, invitations to exhibits and open houses, design identification cards, and other paper ephemera relating to the Folly Cove Designers.

Audio tapes of interviews with surviving Folly Cove Designers members, and their transcriptions, plus photographs. These were created by Prof. Theodora “Penny” Martin in the 1990s and given to Prof. Jennifer Scanlon for her use in an article on the Folly Cove Designers. Prof. Scanlon then gave them to Christine Lundberg & Rawn Fulton (Red Dory Productions and Searchlight Films) to use for their film of the Folly Cove Designers with the understanding that they would then be given to the CAM.

Searchlight Films & CAM digitized the audio & written contents.
